

CONTENTS

Foreword

Danny Dorling

Introduction

The New Society

A.G. Hodgkiss

Bulletin Editors and Volume Index

The 1960s

Steve Chilton

Map Design

A. Carson Clark

Psychological Aspects of Map Design

Elwyn Edwards

Some Thoughts on Visual Perception and Map Design

Michael Wood

The Ordnance Survey One-Inch to One Mile Map: An Outline History, with Special Reference to the Early Editions

A.G. Hodgkiss

The 1970s

Alexander J. Kent

Some Early Cartographers and their Maps

A. Carson Clark

The University Cartographer and Computer Cartography

G.B. Lewis

Maps & Propaganda

John Ager

Typographic Legibility on Maps: A Comparative Study

Tomlinson K.P. Amachree,

Hubertus L. Bloemer and Bob J. Walter

Tithe Surveys and the Rural Landscape of England & Wales

R.J.P. Kain

Optimal Maps

P.E. Sorrell

The 1980s

Steve Chilton

Map Design for Children

H.A. Sandford

Leonardo's Maps and the 'Body of the Earth'

Martin Kemp

Simplicity is the Keynote – A Guest Editorial

John C. Robertson

The Cartographer's Role: Reflections, Reality and Reverie – A Guest Editorial

Roger Anson

From Lineprinter Maps to Geographic Information Systems: A Retrospective on Digital Mapping

Michael Blackmore

Arno Peters' Cult of the 'New Cartography': From Concept to World Atlas

P. Vujakovic

The SUC: 1964 to 1989

A. Carson Clark, Terry Garfield,

Jack Render and Eila M.J. Campbell

25 Years – Where Now?

John C. Robertson

The 1990s

Alexander J. Kent

Is Map Design a Lost Art?

Gary Brannon

Whither Maps and Map Design

Michael Wood

Mapping and Graphing the Social Structure of Britain

Danny Dorling

A Perceptual Approach to Map Design

Henry W. Castner

Site Design or Internet Crime?

Nick Tasker

Living in a World Without Maps: Some Thoughts About Cartography in a Spatially Dysfunctional World

Gary Brannon

Views of the World: Maps in the British Prestige ‘Press’

P. Vujakovic

Hiking on Mars? The What, the How and the Why of Planetary Mapping

R.B. Parry

The 2000s

Steve Chilton

The Heart of the Matter – A Personal View

Michael Wood

It’s Only a Game: Using Interactive Graphic Middleware to Visualize Historical Data

Ifan D.H. Shepherd

Why Can’t a Map Have a Sky?

Alan Collinson

Collaborative Mapping: By the People, For the People

Edward MacGillavry

Changes in University Cartography Over the Last Half Century: A Personal View

Peter Haggett

Next-Generation Webmapping

Richard Fairhurst

OpenStreetMap

Steve Coast

Geodata Collection in the 21st Century

Nick Black and Steve Coast

Designing Maps for the Colour-Vision Impaired

Bernhard Jenny and Nathaniel Vaughn Kelso

Cartographic Blandscapes and the New Noise: Finding the Good View in a Topographical Mashup

Alexander J. Kent

The 2010s

Alexander J. Kent

New Ideas in the Interpretation of Complex Rail Networks

Andrew Smithers

“By Day But Not By Night”: Counter-Mapping Platt Fields Park

Naomi L. Hurrell, Emma Kerry and Helen E. Parsons

Helping Haiti: Some Reflections on Contributing to a Global Disaster Relief Effort

Alexander J. Kent

OpenStreetMap in Great Britain: Quality and Completeness

Oliver O’Brien

Community Mapping by Non-Literate Citizen Scientists in the Rainforest

Michalis Vitos, Matthias Stevens, Jerome Lewis and Muki Haklay

London Subterranea

Stephen Walter