Role - Cartographic Designer

Based in Exeter, Devon - Map Marketing are leading publishers of a wide range of printed maps supplying both the wholesale trade and direct to end user clients. We have a position available to join our small, hard-working Custom Maps team that tailor make and produce bespoke printed & digital maps for corporate clients.

This role involves a high level of front-line customer interfacing; seeing each job through from discussing a client's initial requirements to creating the final raster file ready for printing. The end product is a visual tool and as such an eye for clarity and aesthetics is an important aspect of the job. You will also work with the marketing team to suggest and develop new product lines and help create content for our websites.

The right candidate will have significant experience of working with GIS and have a keen commercial aptitude. Practical experience in GIS (in particular MapInfo Pro, MapBasic or QGIS) combined with a hands-on approach to IT in general is essential. Experience in using graphic design packages such as Adobe Photoshop or Illustrator would also be helpful. You will be comfortable working in a customer-facing environment. The role would suit a self-sufficient individual who is happy working in a team with a pragmatic approach to problem solving.

If you are energetic, possess good communications skills and want to work as part of a small & vibrant team, we would like to hear from you now.
